

CRAN APPOINTS MUFARO NESONGANO TO EXECUTIVE TEAM

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
25 MARCH 2024

The Communications Regulatory Authority of Namibia (CRAN) is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. Mufaro Nesongano to its executive team, effective 20 March 2024. Mr. Nesongano will assume the role of Executive: Communication and Consumer Relations.

In his new role, Nesongano will lead CRAN's strategic initiatives, focusing on communication, international relations, and stakeholder and consumer engagement strategies. He will drive the development and execution of strategic plans and annual programs while ensuring effective coordination and implementation of stakeholder communication, public relations, and consumer engagement activities.

With more than twenty years of experience in broadcasting, communication, public relations, and brand management, Nesongano has demonstrated leadership across diverse sectors such as academia, tourism, and insurance.

Mr. Nesongano holds a master's degree in journalism and media technology, an honors degree in journalism and communication, and a bachelor's degree in journalism and communication. He is also a certified executive and management coach, equipped with various professional certifications.

His outstanding interpersonal communication skills, analytical abilities, and innovative approach equip him to address complex business challenges and advance CRAN's communication and stakeholder engagement strategies.

"We believe Nesongano's expertise will significantly enhance our communication efforts and stakeholder engagement strategies, aligning with CRAN's vision and contributing to the socio-economic development of Namibia," said Mrs. Emilia Nghikembua, Chief Executive Officer, CRAN.
